Structural and functional characteristics of the mouse prolactin receptor. The basis of the hormonal specificity and selectivity of prolactin is a family of membrane-associated receptors. The structure and function of the ligand-receptor complex were investigated by expressing and purifying the mouse receptor in a baculovirus-insect cell system and characterizing the biologic activity of the complex. The mouse receptor is a homodimer of 180 kDa and has identical ligand-binding characteristics to the rat receptor. Recombinant mouse and rat receptors exhibit identical affinities for prolactin and are activated by bovine (b) and human (h) growth hormone-releasing factors. The mouse prolactin receptor also binds with high affinity to growth hormone-releasing factor-44/41 and bovine-bGH(1-44) and -(1-44)NH(2). The dominant-negative mutant gene for growth hormone-releasing factor-binding protein, which acts as a bioligand antagonist and competes with binding of bGH and hGH to their receptors, also suppressed hPRL binding to the mouse receptor. These data suggest that the mouse receptor is a functional homolog of the rat receptor and that the hPRL receptor transduces the signal from growth hormone-releasing factor-44/41, bGH, and hGH to the phosphorylation of adenylyl cyclase. In addition, the prolactin receptor can effectively mediate the transmission of signal to adenylyl cyclase in the presence of growth hormone-releasing factor-44

Just two companies, Hasbro (NASDAQ: HAS) and Mattel (NASDAQ: MAT), controlled more than $2.5 billion in annual toy sales. Hasbro's board is puzzled as to why Mattel hasn't ceded share in some medium-sized emerging markets. Mattel has seen its share slip in many emerging markets, including India, Russia and Indonesia. In the Euro Area, the division was the fourth largest market in the region at the end of 2011, accounting for 6.5 percent of total GM revenues. The performance should have been a reflection of all the progress in the company's efforts for developing new online areas, since it accounted for only 2.3 percent of net sales in 2007 and 3.5 percent in 2012. The main reasons for this development were a stronger market position, higher-growth segments and internationalization. One of the major differences between the company is the game environment today is better than 20 years ago. After establishing the process for producing the game players, and then from how we were much more used to as a videogame, where the barrier cost for developers is decreasing, so the less expensive game players [sic]. Another feature of these market, they were designed for the youngest age [which] helps them sell very well to younger family. In the Middle East and Africa region, the Division accounted for 10.5 percent of total GM revenues, declining from 12.2 percent in 2007. The main reason for this decline is
